

FORT GANSEVOORT

NEW YORK

VULTURE

10 Art Shows We Can't Wait to See This Fall

The exhibits correcting historic oversights, shifting reputations, and shaking up galleries and museums.

Jerry Saltz – September 11, 2026

Art: © Aminah Brenda Lynn Robinson Trust. Courtesy of the Aminah Brenda Lynn Robinson Trust, Columbus Museum of Art, and Fort Gansevoort, New York

7. Aminah Brenda Lynn Robinson: Beaded and Bound

Fort Gansevoort, opens November 19

Robinson made astonishing handmade books, drawings, paintings, and wild constructions from cloth, paper, and found materials. Her dense imagery, exalting family and the Black communities of her native Columbus, Ohio, made her one of America's great storytellers in any medium. Her work, and her home studio, is now in the hands of the Columbus Museum of Art, and this is the second show it has staged in collaboration with the gallery.